Preparing Students for the Age of AI: A Future-Focused Opportunity

The age of artificial intelligence is no longer something we can prepare students for “one day” - it is already here. Your child will graduate into a world of work, education, and problem-solving unlike anything previous generations have experienced.

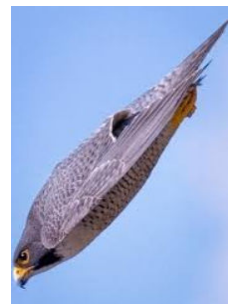

Tech Mentor is offering a National No-Code Hackathon designed to reflect the reality of modern innovation. No-Code Hackathon is on Sunday 8th March, 10am - 4pm (online). The event is open to students aged 14–18 and is designed to be accessible regardless of prior technical experience. Students gain experience of team work, Innovation and thinking out-of-the box, problem solving, confidence in using AI and digital tools as a support for creativity, not a replacement for thinking, An understanding of how technology can be applied across sectors — from healthcare and sustainability to education and business.

Science Fact of the Week

Peregrine falcons fly over 3 times faster than cheetahs run.

Peregrine falcons can top speeds of 240mph while cheetahs can only reach speeds of 75mph. The falcon speed here refers to the peregrine falcon's hunting dive (or "stoop") rather than its horizontal flight speed.
